Master of Science in Clinical Mental Health Counseling

Purpose of Program
The Department of Counseling offers a 60 credit-hour, Master of Science (M.S.) degree in Clinical Mental Health Counseling. This program emphasizes creativity, diversity, developmental and relational processes, ethics and professional identity within Clinical Mental Health Counseling. Students may earn credit toward a state license and/or certification to practice in clinical settings such as a Licensed Professional Counselor.

Program Options
This degree offers the opportunity for advanced study and professional development in the fields of Community, School, Addictions, Multicultural, Marriage and Family, and Sports Psychology Counseling. Students may earn credit toward a state-level counseling license to practice in community settings (Licensed Professional Counselor).

Career Opportunities
A variety of career opportunities are available in education, non-profit, private, state and federal sectors including: juvenile counselor, drug/substance abuse counselor, marriage and family counselor, and a general Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC).

The Counseling program at UTSA is dedicated to preparing multicultural, competent counselors, who strive for creativity, commitment, and determination. The program also makes certain that no need for aid goes unnoticed, and that diversity is embraced, and not neglected.
