Vijay Kanagala is a doctoral candidate and research associate in the Department of Educational Leadership and Policy Studies at Iowa State University. He is currently working on his dissertation “Neither here, nor there: Experiences of Generation 1.5 Asian Indian American students attending a predominantly White institution in identity development and college success.”

Kanagala’s current research interests include issues of race and ethnicity on predominantly white college campuses, identity development issues among Generation 1.5 students, especially students of Desi (South Asian) descent and leadership development among students of color. As Laura I. Rendón’s doctoral research assistant, Kanagala was introduced to Sentipensante Pedagogy in 2005 and has since developed a keen interest in understanding spirituality and teaching for wholeness in the academy.
