EBH provides the following services: individual counseling, diagnostic evaluations, and group therapy. We specialize in neurodevelopmental evaluations (ASD, ADHD) as well as provides general mental health evaluations. These comprehensive evaluations include parent report data collection, clinical interviews, MSE's, IQ testing, and direct play-based assessments. Examples of these assessment include: ADOS-2, KBIT-2, Revised, Weschler IQ tests, CARS-2, and more. After the evaluation is completed clinicians write a comprehensive diagnostic report and conduct feedback sessions with the family where the clinician reviews the results, diagnoses (if any), and resources/recommendations. Our individual counseling is generally offered to neurodivergent children and adolescents; however, we also conduct counseling with adults and children/adolescents with other co-occurring mental health conditions. Our group therapy sessions are currently social skills based with adolescents. In the future we hope to expand these group offerings to include parent support groups and sibling support groups.
